WE ARE PROUD OF THEM.

That Perrysburg business men endorse the Liberty Loan Bond campaign is evidenced by the fact that nearly all of them have requested us to fill their spaces with Liberty Bond ads. The Journal is proud to state that, up to this time, it is the only paper in the State of Ohio that has been able to make such a showing.

Liberty Loan Supper.

The Ladies Aid Society of the M. E. Church will give a chicken supper on Wednesday evening, Oct. 24, at the church for the purpose of raising money to buy a Liberty Loan Bond. Admission, including chicken, 35 cents.

Soldier's Benefit.

On Tuesday night, Oct. 23, 1917, the members of Ft. Meigs Grange will give an oyster supper at the town hall, Perrysburg, for the purpose of obtaining money to supply the township boys who enter the service of the government with the usual equipment for their personal comfort while serving under the colors.

Everybody invited to be present. There will be other features of entertainment and the supper should be well patronized.

By way of a vacation change, why not try going to church?

Whatever has not been blamed on the war is now being blamed on the heat.

Pacifists seem disposed to lay down lives for peace, but not their own lives.

As a horrible example this war has them all beaten. Its moral is "Never again!"

The notion that going to war is a simple process is rapidly being dissipated.

If men had flexible heads these inflexible straw hats would be fairly comfortable.

Women who can wear furs under a summer sun are equal to any sacrifice that may be asked of them.

Horizontal stripes will be much worn this year by young men who did not register for military service.

The German people are said to want peace, and the chances are that the German people never wanted the war in the first place.

Most gratifying is the demonstrated fact that a vast majority of our foreign-born citizens are Americans first, last and all the time.

If the new law is passed in England women over thirty are to be given the vote. And yet they say Englishmen have no sense of humor.

It is estimated that the first year of war will cost us not less than $17,000,000,000, but it will cost Germany what no sum of money can buy.

It worries daughter for mother to buy a nickel's worth when it is just as easy to buy a quarter's worth and throw away what isn't used.

Anyhow, the new German chancellor has nothing on our senators and congressmen when it comes to talking two hours without saying anything.

The pictures of some of the girls who have married slackers lead us to doubt the wisdom of the adage that "faint heart ne'er won fair lady."

We think we admire art but, to be frank, we'd rather see a small boy bury his face in a large wedge of watermelon than view a painting of sunset.

Physicians disagree more than the politicians.

After dodging all the dangers of autocracy, the czar broke his leg riding a bicycle.

This summer's fish story has little interest. The really big game is the submarine.

A necessary adjunct to the raise-more-sheep movement is to raise fewer worthless dogs.

The author of a "how to succeed" book has died insolvent. Most of them do, or ought to.

Nobody looks more foolish than the man who thinks it clever to cheat his way to an exemption.

"Slacker" is a mild word as compared to deserter; yet the two are easily merged in meaning.

The high cost of living has at least discouraged the dangerous tendency to overeat in summer time.

With so much food going to waste on the vines and in transit the only thing to do is to eat it.

It is safe to assume that the women fighting in Europe are not a bit like the moving-picture war heroines.

Were the Savior to come to the United States there are men who would try to make money out of his visit.

The way in which current cabinets are changing would indicate that they are seldom formed of emergency men.

However, the joy riders don't seem to be in the least alarmed about the danger of a shortage in the oil supply.

In the garden the man with the hoe is much more useful than the man with the hose, but wielding the hose is easier.

The girl who has married a man in the hope of saving him from war has picked out a mighty poor kind of husband.

The gridiron season is approaching. Let England and France hold the line and Uncle Sam will carry the ball over.

No shift in Russian affairs offers Nicholas Romanoff encouragement to do anything more than hoe his vegetables.

Now that the French are calling American soldiers "Sammys" one wonders what the Germans will soon be calling them?

An expert advises us to eat poultry to save the beef. At present prices the only thing left for us to do is to help save both of them.

Germany has planned to recapture the dye stuff trade from America as soon as the war is over—but we are dying to beat them now.

In Copenhagen they are expelling tourists who eat too much. Perhaps they are getting nervous over that American blockade and its meaning.

One of the ministers of the new Russian cabinet is Mr. Nikitine. He ought to be able to give much help towards smoking out the enemies of the republic.

"Nobody knows what the Berlin government wants," complains a German writer. Wrong. Everybody knows what it wants, but nobody knows what it expects to get.

The Medical Record having declared that ice cream is food, it must be conceded that young men do not waste the money which they spend in reflection for their best girls.

"Armenians in Need of More Funds," a headline, illustrates the facility with which an oppressed people acquire the ways of the unoppressed, even in the midst of war.

Experiments in bomb-throwing by the American troops in France show that their baseball experience has made them superior at the work to the French and the Germans.

According to the news columns an eminent scientist has discovered that there are only twenty words in the monkey language. Life must be unspeakably dull for the lady monkeys.

It is just naturally born in man to want to dictate to something or somebody, but the man who marries with the idea of having a subordinate to boss is one of humanity's most pathetic figures.

The easiest way to learn to pronounce the names of the new Russian ministers is to take a badly cracked phonograph record, label it "Kerensky Calling the Roll of His Cabinet," and turn it loose.

A rose by any other name would smell as sweet, and whether the new bread is known as war bread or liberty bread a great many people think it an improvement on the white wheat loaf, which it is superseding.

The Germans are quoted as thinking American aviators will fall through lack of courage. They need not lay such flattering unction to their souls. It will not help them when the American aviator gets in action.

Croup.

If your children are subject to croup get a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and when the attack comes on be careful to follow the plain printed directions. You will be surprised at the quick relief which it affords.

BE HONEST WITH CHILDREN

Especially Pernicious Are the Foolish Threats That Are Frequently Made by Parents.

Do not lie to children. They will soon learn you are lying; you will lose their confidence, and their respect for you will be gone. When you tell them fairy stories, let them understand they are stories. Enjoyment of the tales will not be less. Some try to control children by telling them they will be whipped, thrown out of the window, that the "bogey man" will catch them, that they will be "sold to the ragman," or the policeman will get them, and by making many other untrue, senseless threats. The child soon discovers that none of these things occur. He ceases to fear the threat and becomes as disobedient as ever—perhaps more so, since such threats act like dares to continue.

One bad threat often made to children is that the policeman will get them and take them to jail. Children should be taught that the policeman is a friend, not an enemy. They should be trained to know the policeman is one to guard them from harm and to help them in trouble.

The evil of a lie to a child cannot be estimated. It does not correct the child's behavior. One loses the child's respect, and one's authority is consequently weakened. A more serious result, however, is that the child learns to lie. Any lie is an attempt to deceive and must have evil consequences, both for oneself and the child to whom the lie is told. One should never make a threat one cannot perform. Threats are bad at the best. There are other ways to accomplish one's purpose. If you would keep your children honest with you, be honest with them.

Without sacrifice there is no love. When we have fought for our country we shall be able to love it better.

There's another comforting thought—the war must seem just as difficult a task to the Germans as it does to us.

If this war continues much longer the world may learn to subsist by chewing gum flavored with meat gravy.

A new revision of the old adage might read: Save your pennies and the war hogs will take care of your dollars.

Help End the Suffering and Sacrifice

Millions of innocent, helpless old men, women and little children have suffered, multitudes of them have died in massacres or from famine and disease. To all this physical suffering must be added the mental anxiety and distress of hundreds of millions of peoples whose nations are engaged in this fearful strife. The sum total of human misery, death, destruction and devastation is beyond all imagination.

To help bring this awful condition to an end is the duty and privilege of every man, woman and child in America. Civilization turns to this great nation as its savior from the spirit of militarism, which is so largely responsible for this world-wide calamity of war.
